From Unincorporated Territory [Åmot] Craig Santos Perez, 2023-04-05 Experimental and visual poems diving into the history and culture of the poet's homeland, Guam. This book is the fifth collection in Craig Santos Perez's ongoing from unincorporated territory series about the history of his homeland, the western Pacific island of Guåhan (Guam), and the culture of his indigenous Chamoru people. Åmot is the Chamoru word for medicine, commonly referring to medicinal plants. Traditional Chamoru healers were known as yo'åmte; they gathered åmot in the jungle and recited chants and invocations of taotao'mona, or ancestral spirits, in the healing process. Through experimental and visual poetry, Perez explores how storytelling can become a symbolic form of åmot, offering healing from the traumas of colonialism, militarism, migration, environmental injustice, and the death of elders.

The Oxford Handbook of Indigenous American Literature James H. Cox, Daniel Heath Justice, 2014-07-31 Over the course of the last twenty years, Native American and Indigenous American literary studies has experienced a dramatic shift from a critical focus on identity and authenticity to the intellectual, cultural, political, historical, and tribal nation contexts from which these Indigenous literatures emerge. The Oxford Handbook of Indigenous American Literature reflects on these changes and provides a complete overview of the current state of the field. The Handbook's forty-three essays, organized into four sections, cover oral traditions, poetry, drama, non-fiction, fiction, and other forms of Indigenous American writing from the seventeenth through the twenty-first century. Part I attends to literary histories across a range of communities, providing, for example, analyses of Inuit, Chicana/o, Anishinaabe, and Métis literary practices. Part II draws on earlier disciplinary and historical contexts to focus on specific genres, as authors discuss Indigenous non-fiction, emergent trans-Indigenous autobiography, Mexicanoh and Spanish poetry, Native drama in the U.S. and Canada, and even a new Indigenous children's literature canon. The third section delves into contemporary modes of critical inquiry to expound on politics of place, comparative Indigenism, trans-Indigenism, Native rhetoric, and the power of Indigenous writing to communities of readers. A final section thoroughly explores the geographical breadth and expanded definition of Indigenous American through detailed accounts of literature from Indian Territory, the Red Atlantic, the far North, Yucatán, Amerika Samoa, and Francophone Quebec. Together, the volume is the most comprehensive and expansive critical handbook of Indigenous American literatures published to date. It is the first to fully take into account the last twenty years of recovery and scholarship, and the first to most significantly address the diverse range of texts, secondary archives, writing traditions, literary histories, geographic and political contexts, and critical discourses in the field.

A Companion to American Poetry Mary McAleer Balkun, Jeffrey Gray, Paul Jaussen, 2022-04-11 A COMPANION TO AMERICAN POETRY A Companion to American Poetry brings together original essays by both established scholars and emerging critical voices to explore the latest topics and debates in American poetry and its study. Highlighting the diverse nature of poetic practice and scholarship, this comprehensive volume addresses a broad range of individual poets, movements, genres, and concepts from the seventeenth century to the present day. Organized thematically, the Companion's thirty-seven chapters address a variety of emerging trends in American poetry, providing historical context and new perspectives on topics such as poetics and identity, poetry and the arts, early and late experimentalisms, poetry and the transcendent, transnational poetics, poetry of engagement, poetry in cinema and popular music, Queer and Trans poetics, poetry and politics in the 21st century, and African American, Asian American, Latinx, and Indigenous poetics. Both a nuanced survey of American poetry and a catalyst for future scholarship, A Companion to American Poetry is essential reading for advanced undergraduate and graduate students, academic researchers and scholars, and general readers with interest in current trends in American poetry.

The Shades of Rainbow Poets of India, The shades of Rainbow brings all the writers/poets from different parts of India belonging to different tribes, caste, and religions, speaking different languages, practicing different cultures and traditions but having one aim, one motto and therefore come together as one to write and spread love, unity, and good vibes through their writings/poems in this book. Here the different colors of India come together forming a beautiful rainbow through this book.

Arrival and Exile Subhash Kak, 2016-07 Subhash Kak's Arrival and Exile is a collection of poems on journeys, memories, and loss. While some of the journeys are to known places, others are stops in the landscapes of imagination. The circles of memory in the poems speak of love and estrangement, beauty and solitude, and arrival at destination followed by exile.

Ecopoetic Place-Making Judith Rauscher, 2023-08-31 American ecopoetics of migration explore the conflicted relationships of mobile subjects to the nonhuman world and thus offer valuable environmental insight for our current age of mass mobility and global ecological crisis. In Ecopoetic Place-Making, Judith Rauscher analyzes the works of five contemporary American poets of migration, drawing from ecocriticism and mobility studies. The poets discussed in her study challenge exclusionary notions of place-attachment and engage in ecopoetic place-making from different perspectives of mobility, testifying to the potential of poetry as a means of conceptualizing alternative environmental imaginaries for our contemporary world on the move.

Angels of the Americlypse: An Anthology of New Latin@ Writing Carmen Giménez Smith, John Chávez, 2014-06-18

The contemporary literary moment the anthology Angels of the Americlypse: New Latin@ Writing attempts to capture is one defined by diversity, various points of view, literary styles and voices, topical concerns, and senses of self. Not only have these writers widened the field, they have forged new inquiry into their own experiences of the world, as they live in it and understand it. Writing in forms of lyric, short short fiction, nonfictional prose, and in various degrees and forms of experimentation, this collection represents one of the first efforts, in years, to include a critical introduction to the writers' poetry or prose, their literary work, and their own aesthetic statements meant to express their distinct literary presence in American letters.

An Indian Summer Sacheverell Sitwell, 1982

Leaving Yuba City Chitra Banerjee Divakaruni, 2009-09-15 Like Divakaruni's much-loved and bestselling short story collection Arranged Marriage, this collection of poetry deals with India and the Indian experience in America, from the adventures of going to a convent school in India run by Irish nuns (Growing up in Darjeeling) to the history of the earliest Indian immigrants in the U.S. (Yuba City Poems). Groups of interlinked poems divided into six sections are peopled by many of the same characters and explore varying themes. Here, Divakaruni is particularly interested in how different art forms can influence and inspire each other. One section, entitled Indian Miniatures, is based on and named after a series of paintings by Francesco Clemente. Another, called Moving Pictures, is based on Indian films, including Mira Nair's Salaam Bombay and Satyajit Ray's Ghare Baire. Photographs by Raghbir Singh inspired the section entitled Rajasthani. The trials and tribulations of growing up and immigration are also considered here and, as with all of Divakaruni's writing, these poems deal with the experience of women and their struggle to find identities for themselves. This collection is touched with the same magic and universal appeal that excited readers of Arranged Marriage. In Leaving Yuba City, Chitra Banerjee Divakaruni proves once again her remarkable literary talents.

Poems by Indian Women Margaret Grant Campbell Macnicol, 1923

Mapping the Nation Sheshalatha Reddy, 2013-10-15 Focusing specifically on the poetic construction of India, 'Mapping the Nation' offers a broad selection of poetry written by Indians in English during the period 1870-1920. Centering upon the "mapping" of India - both as a regional location and as a poetic ideal - this unique anthology presents poetry from various geographical nodal points of the subcontinent, as well as that written in the imperial metropole of England, to illustrate how the variety of India's poetical imagining corresponded to the diversity of her inhabitants and geography.

The Cambridge Companion to American Poetry and Politics since 1900 Daniel Morris, 2023-04-27 This book helps readers make sense of the scope and complexity of the relationships between poetry and politics since 1900.

If Only It Were Spring Everyday | Relatable poems on love, pain and life Mohua Chinappa, 2024-02-06 If you're yearning for love, respect and humanity, amidst all the chaos of the world, these poems will soothe your soul. You will find words that resonate with the hope of a warm spring sunshine, while the pen nib is dipped in the bloodied ink of the indignities towards humanity and the price paid for the indifferences towards them. The stories that the author collects while working with women pours into a rhythm of expression, honouring the unheard voices. From the garlanding of the criminals of Bilkis Bano to the Manipur violence, and the destruction of our Mother Earth as she withers away, Mohua's poetry echoes the truth around us and reflects our collective anger and pain. If Only It Were Spring Everyday is a collection of poems that is like the rain falling into the belly of the parched earth. The love is celebrated, and the pain is felt like shards of glass piercing into one's heart.

India Poem India Radfar, 2005 This book of poems-by a North American woman who as a child was immersed in the culture of India...who traveled in India as an adult, who was named for the region (itself emblematically named for the mighty Indus River which defined its location)-had to come into existence. Please read this book at quiet moments, when it can release its singular charm. Its author is speaking in the same personal tones India's finest poets always use. I like to think some day a singer will reach for her vina and assign a particular raga to each of these poems. They will then go out & live where they belong-along the city streets and country lanes of India, smelling of jasmine & cow dung, turmeric & mud.

When The Tree Weeps Guna Moran, A wholesome effort is made to express universality of the world we live that is enriched with the wisdom of truth and reality. The humility and commitment of the poet is reflected in the use of easily comprehensible expressions that are capable of touching and enthralling the heart and soul of the readers. Rather than playing a game with words in the name of poetry, the poems included in the compilation demands the exploration of source of eternal loss-win for humanity along with the path of upliftment. Such heartfelt effort can always be expected to transform poems into a majestic resource for mankind. The poems in the collection appear to have succeeded in bringing innumerable waves of echoes and resonances getting automatically hummed in the heart of the readers.

Coconut Milk Dan Taulapapa McMullin, 2013-09-26 Coconut Milk is a fresh, new poetry collection that is a sensual homage to place, people, love, and lust. The first collection by Samoan writer and painter Dan Taulapapa McMullin, the poems evoke both intimate conversations and provocative monologues that allow him to explore the complexities of being a queer Samoan in the United States. McMullin seamlessly flows between exposing the ironies of Tiki kitsch-inspired cultural appropriation and intimate snapshots of Samoan people and place. In doing so, he disrupts popular notions of a beautiful Polynesia available for the taking, and carves out new avenues of meaning for Pacific Islanders of Oceania. Throughout the collection, McMullin illustrates various manifestations of geopolitical, cultural, linguistic, and sexual colonialism. His work illuminates the ongoing resistance to colonialism and the remarkable resilience of Pacific Islanders and queer-identified peoples. McMullin's Fa'a Fafine identity—the ability to walk between and embody both the masculine and feminine—creates a grounded and dynamic voice throughout the collection. It also fosters a creative dialogue between Fa'a Fafine people and trans-Indigenous movements. Through a uniquely Samoan practice of storytelling, McMullin contributes to the growing and vibrant body of queer Indigenous literature.

Little Bit India -- Little Bit U.S.A. Soma Vira,1997 For Soma Vira, poetry is exploring origins, from India to the United States - from her roots in an ancient country to life in New York City. She bridges the gap in our cultures. Witty, wistful, poignant, she shows us the dichotomy of the two worlds, yet their compatibility. She's the right one to write about it, because as she says in one poem: O', old is India and the new America I'm a little bit old and a little bit new a little bit India and a little bit U.S.A.

Indian Summer Shamaela Munir,2004-07 Indian Summer consists of a selection of poems which describe my feelings and experiences from my childhood to my teenage years.

Because of India Suniti Namjoshi,1989

These My Words Eunice De Souza,2012 The ultimate anthology of Indian poetry from the Vedas to the present in all the major Indian languages.
