Veronica Lady Joy Petersen Packer,1971 A past affair across the colour-bar has political and emotional consequences for Derek and his new wife.

A Passage To Africa George Alagiah,2008-09-04 'One of Britain's most respected television journalists, with a reputation built up over many years of covering world events' Guardian 'Tributes will rightly be paid to a fantastic journalist and brilliant broadcaster - but George was the most decent, principled, kindest, most honourable man I have ever worked with' Jon Sopel As a five-year-old, George Alagiah emigrated with his family to Ghana - the first African country to attain independence from the British Empire. A Passage to Africa is Alagiah's shattering catalogue of atrocities crafted into a portrait of Africa that is infused with hope, insight and outrage. In vivid and evocative prose and with a fine eye for detail, Alagiah's viewpoint is spiked with the freshness of the young George on his arrival in Ghana, the wonder with which he recounts his first impressions of Africa and the affection with which he dresses his stories of his early family life. A sense of possibility lingers, even though the book is full of uncomfortable truths. It is a book neatly balanced on his integrity and sense of obligation in his role as a writer and reporter. The shock of recognition is always there, but it is the personal element that gives A PASSAGE TO AFRICA its originality. Africa becomes not only a group of nations or a vast continent, but an epic of individual pride and suffering.

Refusenik Lynn Melnick,2022-01-25 In this searing new volume, Lynn Melnick dives head-first through concentric waves of personal and generational trauma with her trademark fearlessness. Evincing a complex mind shaped by the late 20th century's misplaced priorities, Refusenik interrogates misogyny and anti-Semitism across time and a shifting global landscape-from a football field in Los Angeles to a Russian shtetl to a beloved daughter's Brooklyn bedroom. Various unraveling and allowing for intricate tangles of anger, nostalgia and love, these agile poems furrow deeper into the terrain of Melnick's much-celebrated earlier titles, arriving at a profound and pressured understanding of what it means to be a contemporary American. LYNN MELNICK is the author of the poetry collections Refusenik (2022), Landscape with Sex and Violence (2017), and If I Should Say I Have Hope (2012), all with YesYes Books, and the coeditor of Please Excuse This Poem: 100 Poets for the Next Generation (Viking, 2015). I've Had to Think Up a Way to Survive: On Trauma, Persistence, and Dolly Parton is forthcoming from University of Texas Press in 2022.

As She Appears Shelley Wong, 2022-04-12 Shelley Wong's debut, As She Appears, foregrounds queer women of color in their being and becoming. Following the end of a relationship that was marked by silence, a woman crosses over and embodies the expanse of desire and self-love. Other speakers transform the natural world and themselves, using art and beauty as a means of sanctuary and subversion. With both praise and precision, Wong considers how women inhabit and remake their environment. The ecstatic joys of Pride dances and late-night Chinatown meals, conversations with Frida Kahlo, trees that burst into glamour, and layers of memory permeate these poems as they travel through suburban California, perfumed fashion runways, to a Fire Island summer. Wong writes in the space where so many do not appear as an invitation for queer women of color to arrive in love, exactly as they are.

A Guide to Children's Poetry for Teachers and Librarians Barrie Wade, 1996 Provides information about how the ornitholestes, a small, quick, carnivore that lived in North America in the Jurassic period, may have looked and behaved.

Electricity Comes to Cocoa Bottom Marcia Douglas, 1999 Marcia Douglas, who was born in England and grew up in Jamaica, presents poems beginning with the image of the voicelessness of the country people who witness the coming of lights to Cocoa Bottom but have no one amongst them to record the event. Each poem has its own poignant individually, but there is also a powerful sense of architecture which runs through the collection.

The Use of English, 1993

The Explorer's Daughter Kari Herbert, 2004 For the first two years of her life Kari Herbert lived with her mother and father, the explorer Sir Wally Herbert, among the Inuit people in the vast snowy wastes of the High Arctic. Her first words were Inuktun, her first friends the children of hunters and the pull of the place and its people lured the family back several times during her childhood. Then in 2002 she returned to the Arctic alone. She met her childhood friends again, remembered the exhilaration of sledging with dogs across the ice and remembered the language and faces of her early years. She also encountered alarming changes: the uneasy coexistence of modern life and ancient traditions, and of the hopes and tragedy at the heart of this extraordinary and yet deeply familiar community. place of family memories and of savage beauty, where her friends still hunt and eat whale meat; and where she rediscovers a compelling world where light and darkness dominate life.

Teaching and Learning on Screen Mark Readman,2016-11-09 What stories are told about teaching and learning on TV and in film? And how do these stories reflect, refract and construct myths, anxieties and pleasures about teaching and learning? This collection looks at how pedagogy is represented on screen, and how TV programs and films translate pedagogic ideas into stories and relationships. International in scope, with case studies and analysis from the UK, US, Australia, Turkey and Brazil—the book adopts a critical stance in relation to the ways in which theories of learning and myths about education are mobilized on screen. Teaching and Learning on Screen: Mediated Pedagogies provides a stimulating addition to the field of media and cultural studies, while also promoting debate about particular pedagogic models and strategies that will contribute to the professional development of educators and those involved in teacher education.

Resistance Poetry 2 Roger Langen,2012 A poetry book about peace. About IFPOR The International Festival of the Poetry of Resistance, Toronto, was established by a group of writers, artists, academics and others committed to social justice activism. The aims of the organization are: to plan and promote an annual international poetry festival on social justice themes; to liaise with and support other such festivals and movements around the world; and to assist in the development and publication of a resistance poetry anthology. IFPOR 2009 was dedicated to Freedom for the Cuban Five; successive events called for freedom for Mumia Abu-Jamal and Leonard Peltier, and for oppressed people everywhere. IFPOR 2012, Against State Terror, offers solidarity to those abused by the power of the State, whether a whole population as in Gaza, a gathering of G20 protesters in Canada, or a political prisoner like Lilianny Obando in Colombia, a labour activist in the world's most dangerous place to be a labour activist. IFPOR asserts the values of international law and human rights. It therefore resists the culture of war: the use of force or the threat of force, under the ethical subterfuge of the responsibility to protect, to advance the agenda of the global corporate elite: by blockades, covert operations, extra-judicial assassinations, sanctioning of torture, bombing of civilians - toward the exploitation of resources, productive only of misery and injustice, and ultimately racist. IFPOR believes a better world is possible. * * * IFPOR acknowledges the formative influence of Lisa Makarchuk and Maria Elena Mesa, later Carlos Angulo and Charles Roach (and others). IFPOR acknowledges also the ongoing generous support of philanthropist and social activist, Juan Carranza. The logo on the spine and back cover shows a fist with a P, design by Frank Saptel. For more information about IFPOR, go to www.poetryofresistance.org.

Patchwork Rose Boswell,2021-10-09 Rose was born into the lucky generation, a time of relative material ease beyond the degrading poverty of the Great Depression and the obscene atrocities of the last global war.Following an atypical childhood, she came of age in the seventies when social revolution and university profoundly shaped her life, propelling her into the counterculture, feminist activism and an eastern spiritual quest. Early years were marred by the erratic behaviour of a schizophrenic father and the aloofness of a mother fighting to support a family on her own at a time when society didn't favour single mothers. Rose's mysterious Chinese ancestry always hovered in the background. Buoyed by the optimism of a post-hippie world, Rose broke free of a depressing destiny in the industrial fumes of Newcastle, to dance in the delirious fields of Nimbin, before ultimately attaining two university degrees and forging a career helping others. All the while she kept her feet firmly on the path of spiritual advancement. Rose lived her life in the belief that we drive our lives and create our reality when we take full responsibility for our thoughts and actions. Each personal difficulty is a signpost on the way, a source to be mined for its wisdom. Where her story excels is in her brutally forthright rendering of the emotion at the heart of all her twists and turns, the vulnerability of someone who maintains her faith in ultimate good, no matter the vicissitudes thrown at her. Against the backdrop of a new enlightenment, four children, divorces and an ongoing search for love, Rose crafts a composite whole; a quilt stitched one patch at a time. These pages reveal more than Rose's past. They illuminate the roller coaster ride of the Boomer generation, told with honesty and an engagingly heartfelt personal voice.

Kumukanda Kayo Chingonyi, 2017-06-01 Winner of the Dylan Thomas Prize 2018 Winner of the Somerset Maugham Award 2018 'A brilliant debut - a tender, nostalgic and, at times, darkly hilarious exploration of black boyhood, masculinity and grief. A gorgeous and necessary collection from one of my favourite writers' Warsan Shire Translating as 'initiation', kumukanda is the name given to the rites a young boy from the Luvale tribe must pass through before he is considered a man. The poems of Kayo Chingonyi's remarkable debut explore this passage: between two worlds, ancestral and contemporary; between the living and the dead; between the gulf of who he is and how he is perceived. Underpinned by a love of music, language and literature, here is a powerful exploration of race, identity and masculinity, celebrating what it means to be British and not British, all at once. Shortlisted for the Costa Poetry Prize; Seamus Heaney Centre First Poetry Collection Prize; Ted Hughes Award for New Work in Poetry; Roehampton Poetry Prize; Jhalak Prize 2018

Salt Body Shimmer Aricka Foreman, 2020-08-11 Lyrical and rife with utterance, Salt Body Shimmer asks of the violence we inherit: who speaks from the threshold throat inside the dark's dark? Interior driven and intimately political, the poems in this stunning debut coax and trouble form, traversing the landscape of trauma and survival with a deft musicality of time, family, and slippery memory. At the intersections of race, class, gender, and sexuality, Foreman makes a song of the body-it's howl and jubilation-and invites us to confront our interior lives in the listening. Bold in its quest for knowledge and refuge, Salt Body Shimmer articulates a contemporary American experience, aware of the histories unsaid and unfaced, where women can inhabit their lives fully and freely, knowing safety is fragile and must be grabbed by whatever thread we can find.

English Literature William Joseph Long, 1912

NW Trilogy Roy Williams, Suhayla El-Bushra, Moira Buffini, 2021-10-18 Set amongst the vibrant, intense cacophony of North West London, NW Trilogy is a collection of three vivid stories, told over one performance, that remember and celebrate people who changed the course of history. The personal is political in these soulful explorations of what it means to be part of one of the most dynamic communities in the world. First, we reel to a dance hall in 'County Kilburn' in Moira Buffini's Dance Floor where the Guinness flows, the music never stops and for homesick Aoife, there's far more at stake than a dance. In Roy Williams' bittersweet Life of Riley, Paulette is on a journey to connect with her estranged father Riley, a reggae musician once part of the influential Trojan Records scene, who can't seem to let go of the past. And, Suhayla El-Bushra's Waking/Walking introduces us to Anjali, a wife, mother and newly arrived migrant following Idi Amin's expulsion of the Asian minority from Uganda, who is torn between not making a fuss and seizing her moment to take a stand as the Grunwick dispute unfolds. NW Trilogy is powerful, funny and epic and shows us how we can change the world from our doorstep. This edition was published to coincide with the world premiere as NW Trilogy at Kiln Theatre, London, in August 2021.
